Estella started her teaching career in Cape Town, South Africa, after qualifying as a Junior Primary teacher before specializing in Pre-primary education. Soon after her marriage, she moved to Namibia, where she was fortunate to experience an open-plan approach as opposed to the integrated day she was trained in. This practice opened my eyes to infinite possibilities, and she realized that one could be flexible, adapt and adopt best practices from various curricula.

Since those early days, she traveled extensively and covered many positions, from class teacher to principal, pre-primary superintendent, curriculum developer and teacher trainer. She has vast experience working across various curricula such as British EYFS, Singapore, South African CAPS, American Creative and IB. She is also highly inspired by the Reggio Emilia approach to learning. These underpin her philosophy that young children grow and learn through play and that their development is enhanced in an inspiring environment carefully created with love - a safe space where independence and thinking skills are encouraged and nurtured and where we all learn and relearn with one another. She is currently studying to obtain a Forest School Management qualification.
